good fox run," said
he, yesterday morning,
as he gazed on the bright spring morning. "If I could get a fine pack of hounds and have a good party of hunters I would enjoy it better than anything I can think of now."

illness.

The meeting of the woman's board of the exposition today will be a very important one. The question of assigning space will be considered. Miss Elise Mercer, the trustee, will be present.

—Ex-Governor Henry D. McDaniel, of Montgomery, came to Atlanta on business last night.

—Mr. A. B. Shapard, special correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, was here yesterday evening en route to Thom-sonville, where he goes to watch the movements and doings of Napoleon William Mc-Kinley, who is here by Mr. Shapard's request, presidential possibility. Mr. Shapard will remain at Thompsonville until the presidential possibility leaves.

—John Feltman, the slayer of Marshal Hart, of Seneca, has been returned from Newark, where he was recently tried, to Fulton County jail for safe keeping. The young man was found guilty of first degree murder. His trial will be held on the 28th of December.

—Colonel Ward, the lawyer of Marshal Hart, yesterday passed a vigil stand on Decatur street and grabbed the gun. He recovered his property and gave it back to the sheriff. Calhoun sentence a fortnight a twenty-five days in the stockade.

—General Postoffice Inspector Whitescott has returned to Chattanooga. His trip to Atlanta was made to arrest Simpson, the green goods crook, but he also took into consideration, with Inspector Jones, the affair of Atlanta's Joe James, the affairs of Mrs. Thomas, the mudlark drummer, and spent his strength in trying to get the case. The drummer will not come to Atlanta. He is now asking that his affidavit be accepted.

—There is a resort on Peachtree street which, after this, will not be so popular with the colored community there. Eighteen were arraigned before the recorder and sent to jail yesterday. The men were made by John Doyle and Lockhart.

—A court martial was dissolved yesterday at the Markham division of the state commandant's office. A number of judgments for various amounts were passed by plaintiffs. In the case of J. P.
Simpson against J. C. Bridger a verdict for $100 was found. Hunnicutt, Bellring-ton, and others $102 against J. M.
Ridgway. The suit of Mrs. Thomas against E. Bullock & Co. was dismissed for want of prosecution.

—Judge Van Epps' court was engaged all day yesterday in a small civil case. It was finished yesterday, but will probably be concluded today.

—In Judge Lumpkin's court there is a matter of great importance in process. It is the suit of the state Electric Railway Company against the Atlanta and Chattahoochee Railway Company. The plaintiff company is suing for the rails and various equipment of the Chattahoochee —Mr. J. C. Courtney, who has been idle for some time, was much better yesterday. He would say, "Yours didn't you keep your today? Oh, I was with my family, and introducing me, Smith

would say, 'and a friend of mine, and I for him. Frequently I would

ERIN GO BRAGH.

St. Patrick's Day Observed in Atlanta by Ireland's Sons.

FATHER DALEY'S ELOQUENT ORATION

His Subject Was, "The Tears and Smiles of Erin"—His Eulogy of Ireland's Patron Saint.

From the green isle of Erin, nestled in the North sea, the spirit of St. Patrick, fourteen hundred years after the death of the great patron saint, inspired the hearts of loyal Irishmen in every land yesterday.

In Atlanta the ceremonies were unusually impressive, and the day was observed with that peculiar enthusiasm—mingled with a deep religious reverence—befitting the occasion, and on the joyful and true hearted sons of Erin knew nothing about it. It was like searching for pearls on dry land to find an Irishman without the shamrock displayed from the button, but of his coat or a sprig of green denoted the fact that an Irish heart was beating in his bosom.

Father Daley, of Pensacola, the orator of the day in Atlanta, acquitted himself in a manner that fully established his reputation as a gifted speaker, as well as a true Irishman who shared in a measure the sorrows of the island in which the dust of St. Patrick has been sleeping for more than four centuries.

Yesterday morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Father Daley delivered an eloquent panegyric upon the life and mission of St. Patrick. It was considered by those who heard it as one of the ablest orations ever pronounced upon a similar occasion.

At the Hibernian hall yesterday afternoon Father Daley addressed a large audience composed not only of Irishmen but of all who sympathize with her cause and desired to hear one of her most eloquent speakers. The subject of Father Daley's address was "The Tears and Smiles of Erin"—a subject which gives to an Irishman all the latitude that is necessary for a great oration, to say nothing of the inspiration that it yields to the merest touch of the true Irish orator.

Father Daley's Eulogy.

In the spacious auditorium of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, the recesses in honor of St. Patrick were held at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Among the various organizations represented were the Emmet Club, the Hibernian Rifles, the Hebrew Benevolent Society, the Order of Hibernians No. 1, the Hibernian Association, the Catholic Knights of America and the Catholic Benevolent Association.

COUNTY CONTESTS

Are Not in the Nature of a Judicial Proceeding.

THE POLK COUNTY CASE DECIDED

The Judge of the Superior Court Acts Personally and Not as a Judicial Officer, and His Word Is Final.

The supreme court handed down a decision yesterday which has a strong bearing upon political contests.

The decision between the democrats and the populists of Polk county was strong for six years past, and the election of county officers in January, the candidates for sheriff were Mr. Carter, representing the combined populist and republican vote, and Mr. Clements, representing the democrats. Mr. Clements was elected and Clements contested it. On hearing before Judge Janes, under the act of December, 1893, Mr. Clements was declared entitled to the office, whereupon the populists after moved an appeal to the supreme court, and Judge Janes refused to allow, when Carter applied to the supreme court for a mandamus to compel Judge Janes to certify the bill.

It was upon this application for mandamus that the supreme court passed yesterday. Under the law as it existed prior to 1893, appeals from the decisions of county officers lay to the governor of the state, but the act already referred to changed it to the circuit judge. The supreme court held that the act "to provide for the filing, hearing and determining of contested elections in this state, and for other purposes," does not invest the superior courts of this state with any jurisdiction in such cases. The provision in that act which declares that "all papers and documents of every kind which may be filed by the prevailing officer or agreed to by the parties in writing must be transmitted within five days after the closing of the testimony so taken to the judges of the superior court of the circuit wherein the contest arises, who shall then determine the time, either in term time or in chambers, after giving reasonable notice to the parties concerned, or their counsel, of the time and place of hearing," does not constitute a sufficient cause of action to sustain the right of the superior court to hear the case.

To sustain the point that the function of the judge is called upon to exercise is political and personal, and not judicial, thereby being subject matter for review by a higher court, the decision concludes:

"I have found that by care and the use of just the right thing, I can preserve my knowledge of the secret for many years. Indeed, I think I have discovered the secret. No matter where I go I carry it with me. I can always find it. Do you ask me what it is? I will tell you: War-chases in the Mediterranean, Australia, and, in fact, in every quarter of the globe, so it must be that people all over the world know it. I can tell you how valuable it is. Now, don't think I am telling you this to advertise the medicine. I tell you this because it may be true. And, indeed, don't know what it is made of, but I do know that for broken down horses, weak men, and feeble-minded children, it is the grandest discovery of modern times and I don't hesitate to say so."

I left the old captain, whose ship was about to sail, much impressed by his singular and unique knowledge of the subject. I part the power to him with respect to such matters a judicial function, but simply by reference to the office designate that officer as the person who shall perform those duties which heretofore have been performed by the police officer to the executive branch of the government, but which for the public convenience the general assembly, without changing the nature of the service, saw fit to impose upon other persons.
